REDS IN A ROW

A DIVERGENCE of policy in the Free World is a good thing for the Communists. Similarly, a quarrel between Russia and China is an obvious advantage to the West.

But we in the Free World are sensible enough not to allow our differences to lead to a split in the alliance, and we would be wise to assume that the same sentiment prevails in the opposite camp.

Therefore the reports allegedly emanating from Moscow embassy sources and other people supply in the know of a serious split in the Red ranks should not be hailed as portending an imminent break in the Communist front.

Similar reports have been appearing at intervals for a long time now. They make a "good story," and that is about all that can be said for them.

Not trivial

IT is true that the dispute — there is a dispute — is not a trivial one. It concerns the correct interpretation of Communist doctrine, and among those closed minds there can be nothing more serious.

The Chinese, still in the first phase of Marxist development, stick to Lenin's theory that war with Capitalism is inevitable.

They do not fear a nuclear conflict. Theirs is still largely a primitive society, depending more on muscles than machines, and if they lost even two-thirds of their people, they would still have 200,000,000 left.

Mr Khrushchev has abandoned this part of the Leninist theory, which he says is out of date. He declares that Imperialist wars are no longer inevitable, because Communism will triumph without them.

He speaks as the head of a vast industrialized economy which would suffer almost as much from a nuclear holocaust as would the closely integrated societies of the West.

Long time

THE dissension has been rumbling for a long time, and it will probably rumble for a still longer time yet, but to imagine that this means an open break between the two largest Communist nations is pure wishful thinking, and wishful thinking will only do the cause of the Free World more harm than good.

Russia is still the leader of the Communist alliance. This leadership has been acknowledged in Peking.

And Mr Khrushchev, though there is a body of Soviet opinion which supports the Leninist point of view, is still very much the master of Soviet Russia.

The chances are that Russia and China will fall out some day. But that day will probably not come until China becomes a powerful industrial nation. And that will not be until the 21st century. —AP.

'Dangerous, and is not what it purports to be' ELECTRICITY PROPOSAL FLAYED

Outspoken opinions expressed

There are hidden dangers in the scheme proposed by the two local power companies as an alternative to nationalisation.

This is the general consensus revealed today by a China Mail survey of public opinion on the agreement suggested by the Hongkong Electric Co Ltd and the China Light and Power Co Ltd.

The companies proposed an agreement between the Government and themselves whereby the two companies will be entitled to a maximum profit margin of 4.7 cents per unit of electricity sold.

Retention

Of the margin, 2.5 cents per unit is to be marked for dividends and 2.2 cents for retention in the business.

Mr Charles Barber, who represented the motion pictures industry at the public hearings on the Electricity Commission, said this morning "the offer of the two companies is just about what I would have expected."

"In view of its wide divergence from the report of the Electricity Commission, it would be scandalous, in my opinion, to accept the proposal without further public hearings."

"My feeling is that the proposal has many hidden dangers and it is not what it purports to be."

Another local resident who had represented an important local industry at the public hearings objected to two points in the proposal.

Guaranteed

"It seems to guarantee the companies their dividends. On rough calculations, the dividends they are attempting to have guaranteed are higher than that which has been declared."

"The compulsory provision for retention of a portion of the profits in business would be tantamount to shifting the burden of capitalisation from the shareholder to the consumer."

"For what is retained in business will eventually be compensated and issued to shareholders."

Mr Hilton Chooi-Leen of the Civic Association had many queries about the scheme:

"In principle," he said, "it is a good thing that the two electric companies have new profit for Government consideration a scheme that is an alternative to nationalisation."

"Essentially, the public is interested in whether or not the new scheme will put forward will mean reduction—a sizable reduction, at that—of electricity charges."

With this scheme in effect give maximum protection to the public from any arbitrary and unreasonable increases in the future?"

"Will it guarantee an efficient, abundant supply of electricity at the lowest rate possible consistent with public interest?"

"I think that Government should now invite comments from the public and, in particular, from those groups and individuals that participated in the Electricity Supply Commission hearings."

"Until that is done, no final decision on this question should be made by Government."

An authority on the local Stock Exchange said: "It would seem that the scheme may help the companies to take more and more money as capital from the consumers."

AGROUND

Traverso City, Dec. 1. Coast Guardsmen today made contact with the storm-tattered Liberian freighter Francesco Morozzo aground in Lake Michigan. Captain Giacomo Lipper's wife, Mrs Edna, 70, and another woman, wife of an expedition mother, were taken from the stricken ship. The Captain and 12 crewmen remained aboard.—AP.

A MAN IN SPACE NEXT PROBABLE STEP BY SOVIET SCIENTISTS

London, Dec. 1. Professor Bernard Lovell, Director of the Jodrell Bank observatory, said tonight that the launching of the new Soviet Space Ship III satellite indicated that the Soviet Union was now capable of "putting a man into space."

Commenting on the launching, Professor Lovell said:

"This is a further indication that the Russians have the capability of putting a man into space, but they seem to be making sure with dogs before risking man's lives."

Meanwhile, the British Broadcasting Corporation announced that the new satellite was circling the earth every 88 minutes.

A BBC station at Tatsfield, Kent, had monitored radio signals from the satellite at 19,055 kilocycles at every passage of the space ship, the announcement said.

In Moscow, the Soviet Prime Minister, Mr Khrushchev, told reporters that the latest launching of a Noah's Ark space ship was "a great victory towards man's flight in space."

WALKED OVER

He had walked over to the table where reporters were standing during a reception to night for Prince Norodom Sihanouk, of Cambodia.

One reporter asked him whether the animals in the space ship would be returned to earth.

Grinning, Mr Khrushchev shrugged and said: "Probably, but the scientists know better than I do. I have not talked with anyone about it."

He agreed that the weight of 4½ tons was very great.

"It's big enough for a man to have his dinner inside," he said.

A Soviet astrophysics expert, Dmitry Martynov, told tonight the space ship was not expected to remain in space for "any considerable time."—UPI and Reuter.

Typhoon

Rome, Dec. 1. Typhoon Ophelia changed course today and headed across the Pacific in a direction that would spare Manila the full force of the 161-mile-per-hour winds.

Previous reports had placed the storm east of Manila moving due west on the Philippines capital.

Latest reports placed the storm 645 miles east of Manila but moving west-northwest instead of due west.—UPI and Reuter.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

New York, Dec. 1. Importers of Russian perfumes which they plan to place on the American market soon disclosed today that they have a problem.

Two of the Soviet scents are named "Red Moscow" and "Sputnik."

The importers believe they could sell better under different names, but they say the Russians refuse to change the names.

The Russians have agreed to call the third perfume "Treasure Chest" instead of "Black Casket."—AP.

LABOUR MEMBER'S QUERY IN COMMONS

EQUAL PAY FOR HK WOMEN DEMAND

London, Dec. 1. Mr Iain Macleod, the Colonial Secretary, said today he was sure progress would continue in Hongkong towards giving women equal pay with men in the public service.

He was replying to questions in the House of Commons by Mrs Barbara Castle, a Labour Member.

Mrs Castle asked why it was not proposed to extend the principle of equal pay, recently introduced for certain women medical officers in Hongkong, to women teachers and other women civil servants in employment of the Hongkong Government.

Conclusions

Mr Macleod replied: "On January 1, 1960, 6,000 women were employed in Government service. Twelve, who are medical officers, are receiving equal pay."

"The policies of the Hongkong Government are based on conclusions and recommendations of last year's Salaries Commission which narrowed the gap between men and women's salaries."

Mrs Castle asked if Mr Macleod was aware that the Salaries Commission was composed exclusively of men. Women were nothing heard of having this old club folded up, and the proposal of appointing an all-male committee for establishing there was no case for giving women equal pay with men."

She asked if the Colonial Secretary was aware that women getting equal pay "bitterly resented" this discrimination, and would he intercede to get equal pay for women in Hongkong.

Mr Macleod replied: "I cannot advise the Governor to disregard the report of the Salaries Commission."

Mr Macleod said that in that country it had been a long and slow process towards equal pay.

"I am sure progress will continue in Hongkong," he said.—Reuter.

BRUSSELS SHOCK

Brussels, Dec. 1. A commercial source here estimated the value of Belgian assets in Egypt at about 150 million Belgian francs (about 21,070,000).

The Cairo move took observers here by surprise. They said they were unable, in view of the Congo's independence, to understand any link between the seizure and the Congolese call for the withdrawal of the United Arab Republic embassy staff in the Congo.—Reuter.

Nasser had issued a decree nationalising the Cairo Electric Railways and Hellipolis Canal Company and terminating the concession granted by the Egyptian Government to Mr Edouard Empain.

A decree

"The President also issued a decree nationalising the bank, a decree placing the Egyptian Electricity Company under sequestration, and a decree placing the Cairo Tramways Utility under sequestration," it added.

Earlier, Mr Abdel Kader Hafem, UAR Minister of State for Information, commenting on the Congolese breach with the UAR said in an official statement that his Government had established contacts in the last few days to agree on "decisive measures against the conspiracies of the imperialists" in the Congo.

The statement said: "The UAR Government has established contacts in the last few days with countries supporting liberty and slugging against imperialism to take decisive measures to combat the conspiracies of the imperialists against the independence of the Congo and to work to save the name of the United Nations after the UN Command has become a tool in the hands of

Venezuelan troops take full control

Caracas, Dec. 1. Ten people have been killed and 150 injured during week-long disturbances in the Venezuelan capital, but all was calm today after left-wing students who occupied the Central University gave in to troops this morning after a 24-hour siege.

MOBUTU ARRESTS LUMUMBA'S FAMILY

Leopoldville, Dec. 1. Five members of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba's family have been arrested in the town of Kikwit, 600 kilometres east of Leopoldville, on orders of Col. Mobutu, Congolese sources stated here today.

Joseph Okito, who succeeded Joseph Ileo as President of the Senate and a fervent supporter, had also been arrested at Kikwit, with two other members of Parliament, the sources said.

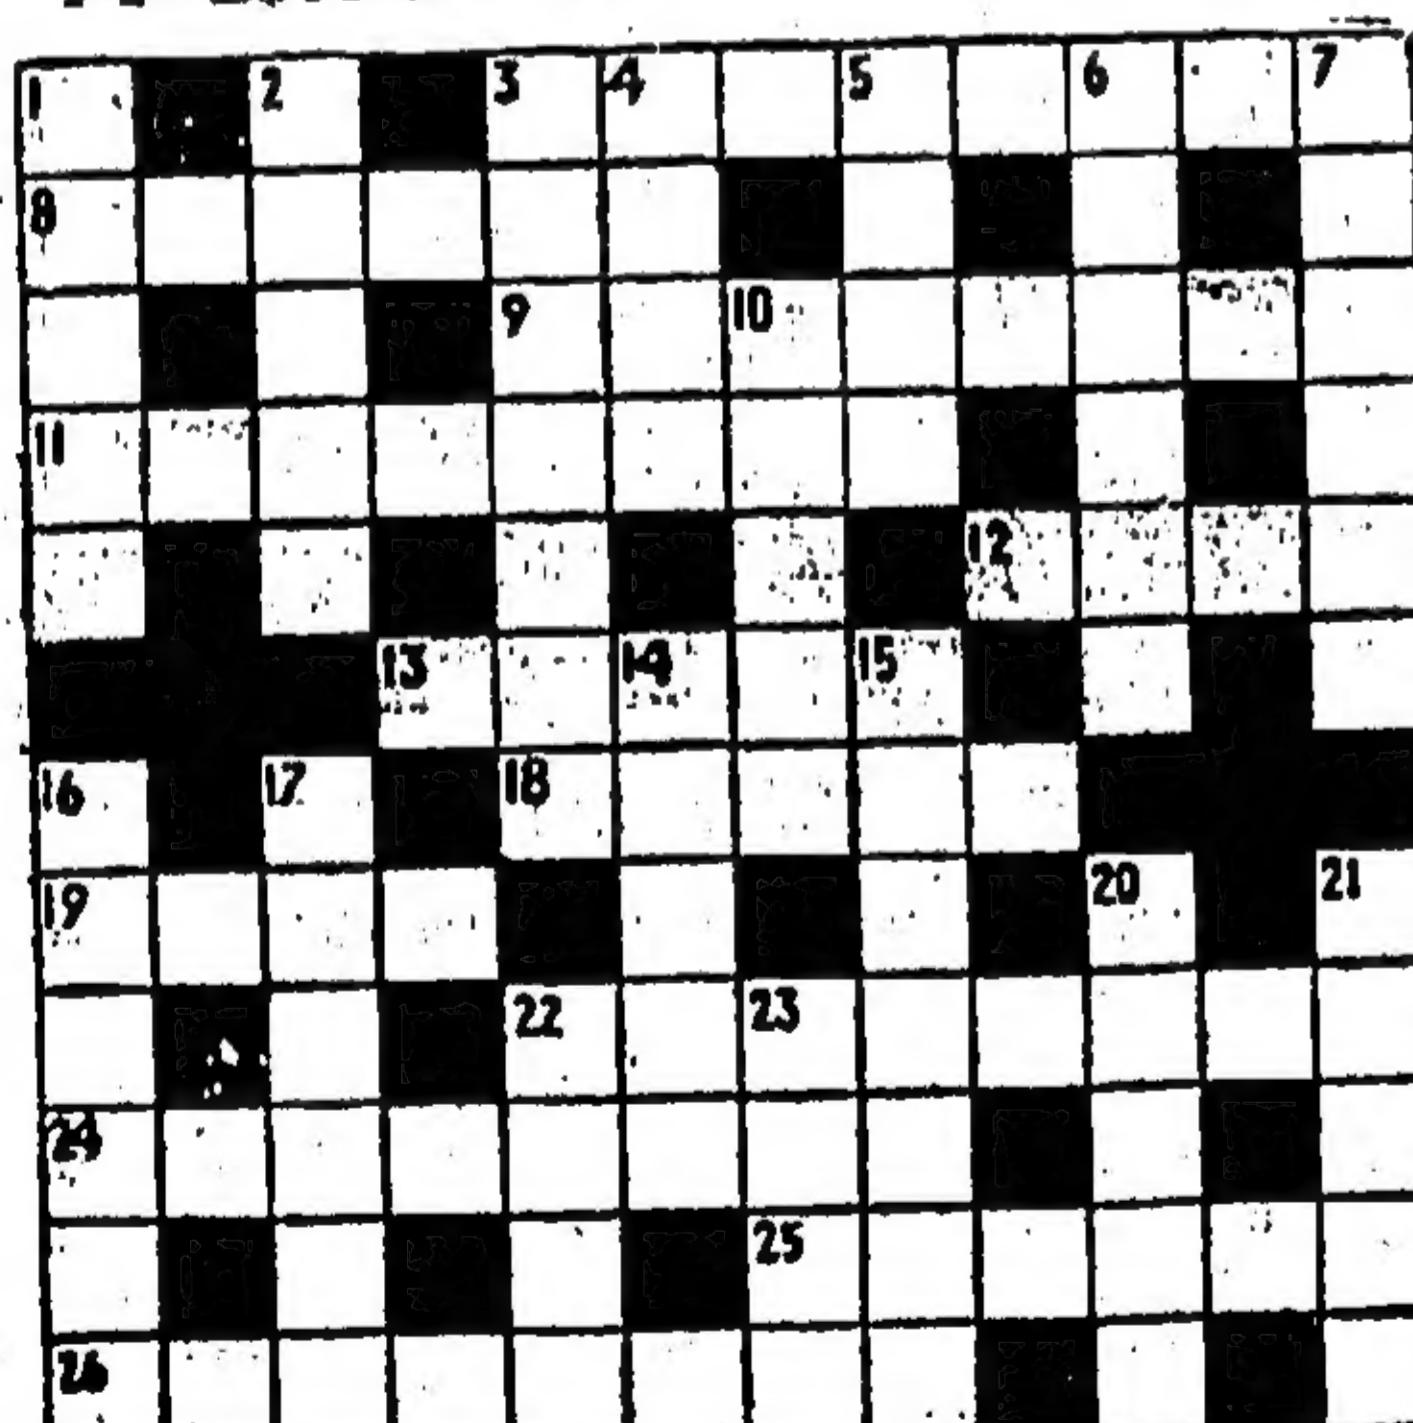

Meanwhile Lumumba himself, who escaped from Leopoldville last Sunday night, was believed to be continuing his long and difficult drive to Stanleyville, capital of the Eastern Province and a Lumumba stronghold.

FUGITIVE

Far from fleeing as a fugitive, Lumumba was stopping in the villages, particularly in the Kikwit region, to address the inhabitants, informed sources said. He was telling them that he had left Leopoldville to create "a real national and independent government."

He was known to be accompanied by close supporters including several ministers of his deposed government, and it was believed he was being escorted by a small group of soldiers—AFP.

A CRISIS IS ENDED

Lucknow, India, Dec. 1. The Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru today ended a two-month political crisis in his home state of Uttar Pradesh when local Congress Party legislators bowed to his wishes and elected a new chief minister.

The legislature elected Mr. Chandra Bhushan Gupta, 58, as its leader after prolonged party haggling.

The crisis erupted because of rivalry between the State Congress committee, the central party committee, and the Congress Party in the Legislative Assembly which is elected by voters.

(Similar rivalry exists in other states also, and the National Congress Party fears local fending of this kind may lose its votes in the general elections due in 1962)—Reuters.

Police failed however in their bid to seize the Party's archives and other "incriminating" documents, which were believed to have been moved away by Party leaders shortly before the search.—AP.

Negroes can be given white skin in certain cases

Washington, Dec. 1.

A skin specialist said today that certain individual Negroes who have abnormally pigmented skin containing white blotches can be given "quite natural" all-white skin by means of drug treatment.

Dr Robert Stolar of Georgetown University reported he has had some degree of success in 10 of 300 cases treated in that way over the past 10 years, and in most of the 10 the natural all-white appearance has been achieved.

He stressed that the technique offers no possibility of converting normal Negro skin into white, except for a very temporary period.

In a report to the American Medical Association's annual meeting, amplified in an interview, the doctor said he and his associates have also treated some 200 white people for the same abnormal skin condition which is manifested by a bizarre pattern of brown skin with whitish blotches.

REPIGMENTATION

In the cases of the white people, however, the skin was repigmented. Instead of depigmenting as in the case of the Negroes so that the white patients acquired a deep tan.

Stolar said the abnormal skin condition in both races is known as "vitiligo" and results from an inability of one of the body's basic amino acids called tyrosine to be properly converted into melanin, the chemical which normally produces pigmentation of skin.

Cause of this body chemistry abnormality is as yet unknown, he said.

Two different drugs are used, depending upon whether depigmentation or repigmentation is desired. They are applied in the form of ointments over a period of years.

The depigmentation drug is called "mono-benzyl ether of hydroquinone." The one for repigmentation is "8-methoxy psoralen." Use of the latter is accompanied by ultraviolet radiation, the combination producing the tan for whites.

He said most of the 10 Negroes considered as successful cases of depigmentation "look quite natural white."

He said some of them requested that their hair be lightened also but "we have not been able to depigment the hair,"—AP.

Bangkok, Dec. 1. About 100 cases of cholera were reported today in Ubon city and authorities have declared an emergency. Ubon, 500 miles from Bangkok, is still recovering from a fire three weeks ago that left 3,000 people dead.—AP.

KENNEDY'S FIRST CABINET APPOINTMENT

Washington, Dec. 1. Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut was today named by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in his new Cabinet.

Mr. Kennedy announced his first Cabinet appointment six hours after he disclosed that he had picked Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan as Assistant Secretary of State for Africa.

CLOSEST

With the President-elect obviously near final decisions on a number of key posts, press secretary Mr. Pierre Salinger said Mr. Kennedy would announce a third appointment tomorrow.

Mr. Kennedy made the announcement from the doorway of his Georgetown home with Mr. Ribicoff standing beside him. Both were barefoot.

Mr. Ribicoff, now serving his second term as Governor, was one of Mr. Kennedy's earliest backers for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He served as Mr. Kennedy's floor manager at the National Convention and was one of the President-elect's closest campaign advisers.

He also placed Mr. Kennedy's name in nomination for Vice-President at the 1956 convention.

A one-time newsboy in his hometown of New Britain, Mr. Ribicoff got his start in politics in 1938 when he was elected a state representative.

In announcing Mr. Ribicoff's appointment, Mr. Kennedy said the Governor's new assignment will involve "some of the most challenging and significant activities and programmes of the years to come."—UPI.

U.S. applies

to aliens

Washington, Dec. 1. The State Department today banned aliens living in the U.S. on a permanent basis from travelling to certain Communist areas of the world.

The State Department said the regulations "prohibit the departure of permanent resident aliens who desire to travel to those countries of which American citizens are not permitted to travel."

PENALTIES

It noted that penalties for violating such immigration regulations range up to a $5,000 fine or five years in prison. In some cases, properly in the United States may be declared forfeit.

The State Department said it might make exceptions in individual cases provided the Justice Department agrees.

Such exceptions have been made for some U.S. citizens, including Americans who wanted to visit relatives imprisoned in Red China.—UPI.

HELPED REBELS

Lyon, Dec. 1. French Police today arrested Blaise de Pury, 23-year-old son of one of the nation's leading Protestants, on charges of having aided a clandestine ring of Algerian nationalists rebels.

MOB OF MOTHERS

Whites beaten, kicked for attending school

New Orleans, Dec. 1. White mothers today started fights with several integrationists who wanted white children to enter the William Frantz School, integrated here a few days ago.

Police came to the aid of the victims, whites who had been beaten and kicked by the mothers.

The mothers also attacked reporters and photographers. And, to prevent any incidents, the police ordered the newsmen to "draw back."

A reporter for a New Orleans daily, however, captured attacked and succeeded in hitting one of the women with his folding stool before laying.

The white boycott of the two integrated schools continued. But some white children, accompanied by their parents, succeeded in entering the claims after having been limited by the demonstrators.

At William Frantz School

four white children sat beside a black Negro girl. There had been only two this day before.

At Macdonald School the

victim was Sydney Goldfinch, university student, son of a Protestant clergymen and one of the white leaders of the integration movement.

The women, cried: "Dirty Jew" and "Nigger (Negro) Lover." The police had considerable difficulty in getting him out of the furious women's hands.

University Professor George Playford, another leader of the integration movement, was also assaulted by the mothers.—AP.

Colombo, Dec. 1. Parents moved into some 60 Roman Catholic schools in Western Ceylon today in a bid to prevent the government's take-over of assistant schools.

Legislation placing under government control about 2,000 aided schools and concert schools came effective today.

There were no immediate reports of incidents in this strongly Catholic west coast region, not least Colombo where parents also occupied missionary controlled schools and those that were under government authorities were closed for holidays.

The acting Minister of Education, Mr. V. T. G. Karunaratne, hailed the take-over as "the first step in the government's pro-

"Somehow or other the puppy, which was shut in the kitchen, managed to turn on two gas gass."

DREADFUL DARTMOOR TO GO

London, Dec. 1. No new prison is to be built on Dartmoor when the present 150-year old building, the grimdest and most hated in Britain, is pulled down, Mr R. A. Butler, the Home Secretary, announced today.

GUARDS FEAR ROBBERY

London, Dec. 1. Railway guards who yesterday banned mail on fast corridor trains between London and Brighton because of a high risk of robbery, today failed to get full support from colleagues.

After making their protest, most guards were today again accepting mail, but a few would still only take it on slow non-corridor trains which they believe are safer. Three fast trains on this south coast route have fallen prey to daring mailbag robberies in three months. Guards were trussed up in each case. The last raid was on Tuesday night.

The guards say on the fast trains they can be surprised anywhere on the 50-mile journey, and the corridor increases the risk of surprise attack.—China Mail Special.

Waterloo-road reconstruction

Waterloo-road between Portland-street and the waterfront is to be reconstructed following the decking of the open nullah in that stretch of the roadway. The reconstruction includes the provision of a dual carriage-way, each 33 feet wide, between Portland-street and Canton-road where the road then becomes a single carriageway to the waterfront.

Provision is also being made for 14-foot wide footpaths on either side of the dual carriage-way. A central island, six feet wide, will run down the middle of this portion of the road. The single carriageway will be 60 feet wide with footpaths of about ten feet in width on either side.

Board of Examiners

The Government Gazette notified today that the following have been appointed Members of the Board of Examiners:

Dr J. Belote, Dr Cheung King-ho, Mr Hei-tak, Mr Wong Tsin-tai, Mr A. P. Richardson, Mrs T. Wong, Mr J. W. Sweetman, Miss Lau Yuen-chuk, Mr Ip Che, Mrs Tang Li Sui-nan, Mr Ip Kun-im, Mr Stephen Ho Yuen-suen, and Mr Patrick Wong Kwong-man.

Dr Irene Cheng and Mr Chung King-pui ceased to be members of the Board, the Gazette added.

St John's Cathedral

Sir John Kinloch has been appointed to be Lay Representative of St John's Cathedral instead of Mr D. J. S. Crozier, the Government Gazette notified today.

Exchange fund

Mr G. O. W. Stewart and Mr D. A. Smith have been appointed Members of the Exchange Fund Advisory Committee during the absence from the Colony of Mr M. W. Turner and Mr W. C. Tait, the Government Gazette notified today.

The Public Works Department's electrical workshop at No 18, Johnston-road, Wan Chai, is to be demolished and the cleared site will be reserved for a school building.

TAKE THIS MAN, FOR INSTANCE...

PSYCHIATRIST "Worried eyes, but I would say the eyes of a balanced, ambitious type of man."

POLICEMAN "Honest eyes, but they could be shifty. I suppose, I can't read anything in those."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "I could only judge if they were looking right at me."

PSYCHIATRIST "I can never read anything into a man's nose unless it's so big or small or ugly that he's obviously worried about it."

POLICEMAN "Never judge a man by his nose. Some of the reddest noses I know belong to totalitarians."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "A good, firm nose, this. A bit cocky, though."

PSYCHIATRIST "A warm, open-hearted character with intelligence."

POLICEMAN "I would say quick tempered."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "I would say that this was a very honest man. But there is some temper here."

Boldly—a country puts its problems before the world

IN the days when the paint was still fresh in Tokyo's film studios, a young director suddenly found himself under investigation by his studio.

Not that Heinosuke Gosho wasn't one of the really bright talents at the time.

But his employers were cautious men in an industry still hypersensitive to public criticism. Young Gosho had been showing a dangerous tendency. He had been filming too many love stories.

That was almost 25 years ago. This year Japan's entry at the Cannes Film Festival was a love story that raised eyebrows even among that worldly throng on the Croisette—it was so daring.

But the march of the movies in Japan is like that.

It is a story of startling about-turns, ironical changes of fortune, immense resourcefulness and unceasing zeal to please and to turn a profit.

In short, out-paint Japan leads the world. Over 5,000 features spilled out of her studios last year—over a thousand million tickets were sold at her box-offices.

And this in a land where two hours in five have TV.

In terms of quality, too, Japan is a great Power.

No longer need Tokyo producers take space in the newspapers to apologise when their festival entries come home without a prize. They have carried off nearly 40 different awards since 1951.

Queues

Now even the films made for the home market draw queues around the block in the world's biggest city.

How she broke into it is a story of her producer's knock of seizing those opportunities that fate presents.

Fate in this case came in the unexpected conjunction of a general and a festival.

the advice of the Italian film representative.

The wild, savage, lyrical power of Rashomon was such a storming success in the West that Japan was soon catching on to its popularity period pictures for export.

At the same time, opinion at home was not entirely pleased. "Coloured exoticism," sniffed the critics.

With Westernisation flooding in, it seemed a good time to launch films with a modern setting that gave them a ready-made appeal in America and Europe.

Thus not till relatively recently have films trickled into Britain which show Japan's film-makers at grips with modern problems in a way as bold as the post-war Italian ones on canvas.

Then the unforeseen happened.

The Venice Film Festival of 1961 awarded its premier prize to a Japanese costume film with a feudal setting.

There is Street of Shamo—which turned a harsh and realistic eye on Tokyo's red-light district.

There is Juvenile Pardon, which featured the "sun tribe" of today's Japan.

This was a set of rich, primped-up young people who could

I talked about eyes to A Peacock. He said: "I distrust people with narrow eyes. The wider men they are the more I am likely to believe."

THE LIPS according to Mr Penny have a lot to do with it. A man with thin lips is usually firm and decisive. Often suppressing warmer feelings and emotions.

The Personnel Manager I saw said: "I don't go on them. I like to talk to someone with a good, full mouth. Tight mouths and thin lips go too often with a secretive nature."

Important

POLICE at Doncaster are convinced that few people can recognise the face of a man they want to interview from one picture.

To make sure they get the right man they issued five pictures of him—which showed how his face had changed from 1952 until now.

Now just how much can you learn about someone from looking at their face?

According to the noted physiognomy expert Mr Jacques Penny you can tell a person's complete character by a study of their eyes, nose, and mouth. Wrinkles, he says, are another good guide.

Conflicting

Mr Penny's theories were put to the test by me—with a picture of a well-known actor.

As you will see from the sectionalised face alongside, a Psychiatrist, a Policeman, a Personnel Manager, and Mr Penny—all of them full-time face-watchers—have conflicting views on what sort of man this might be.

Now, according to Mr Penny, if YOUR EYES slope downwards at the corners you are likely to be suave—sometimes at the expense of truth.

THE NOSE, according to Mr Penny, is important too. A retrousse nose suggests a love of ease.

A concave nose, with an outward curve or bump, is clearly the best sort of nose to have.

Its owner, he says, is positive, and determined.

The Psychiatrist thought this was nonsense. "A nose is a nose," he said. "It's for breathing with."

The first great face-reader was none other than Aristotle. He had altogether fixed opinions on the human proboscis. He said: "A thick bulbous nose goes with a swinish, insensitive person."

Those with sharp, tipped noses are frascible and easily provoked, while he with a rounded, large obtuse nose is magnanimous.

"The slender hooked nose suggests a grasping person, eagle-like."

Having an O.K. nose myself—according to Mr Penny—I think we can leave it at that.

WHO IS HE?

Nairobi. THE WARRIOR or "morans" of Kenya's Masai tribe are usually handsome, often indolent, and frequently homicidal.

The two I've just met were fully armed with eight-foot bloodied spears and dented shields, but they were fortunately non-homicidal.

In fact they looked about the happiest and best adjusted pair of "morans" in the Masai.

They have the job, which is by no means exhausting, of opening the doors to the grounds of the Mount Kenya Safari Club, greeting the visitors with shaken umbrellas head-dresses, and smiles as broad as Lake Victoria.

Judging by the opulent standards of the club they are probably also the best-paid pair of "morans" in the Masai.

Fabulous

Before I left London, William Holden, who is one of the three millionaires who own the club, said to me: "It's a fabulous place. You must visit it whatever else you do in Kenya."

The Mount Kenya Safari Club, I would now say, is about the most extraordinary place in the whole of this extraordinary multi-shaded continent.

While South Africa simmers, while the Congo glowers, while Kenya shivers uneasily on the black rim of independence, Holden and his partners are pouring money into their club as though they believed Stanley Livingstone and all was well under the Colonial sun.

Perfect

They bid £50,000 for the premises originally the Mwingiyo Hotel. To date they have spent another £50,000 on improvements, and when they are finished they don't expect much change from an additional £100,000.

They have chosen a perfect setting for their spending. The club stands in the beautiful wide red-earth country, about 150 miles north of Nairobi and at the foot of Mount Kenya, which looks down from 17,000 feet with cloud-capped majesty.

I spoke to Carl Hirschman, the treasurer of the trio. (Ray Ryan is the third partner).

Hirschman said: "We intend to make the club not only the best in Africa but one of the best and most luxurious in the world."

"No, we are not worried about the political future. The club has a multi-racial policy. No one will be barred because of colour."

Ordinary members from America pay 1,000 dollars (£367) a year and the locals get in for £25.

The charter list is a mixed bag, highly impressive. Here is a section:

Prince Bernhard, the Duke of Manchester, the Earl of Portsmouth, the Duke of Cambridge, Lord Delamere, Lily Pons, U.S. actress, Saturday Night and Sunday Morning, tipped as the next Olivier.

Such I am told, is the film called No Greater Love which is hoped to show soon in London.

It runs over three hours and is set in war-time Manchuria in a prisoner-of-war camp itself a point worth noting where the manager is a Japanese pacifist who is driven by conscience to side with the captives.

And one of them wrote: "Foreigners—forever hunting souvenirs—never pick our paintings on silk instead of our oils on canvas."

At the same time, opinion at home was not entirely pleased. "Coloured exoticism," sniffed the critics.

FIRSTS'

It has several "firsts" to its credit. Japan's first "talkie" made in 1931 and entitled The Neighbour's Wife and My Wife. And Japan's first colour film, Carmen Comes Home, in 1951.

Typical of the thoroughness of Japanese studies, Shochiku possess even a factory for repairing imported equipment.

In addition to owning cinemas and making pictures, the company presents Kabuki—Japan's classical drama—and the puppet theatre known as Bunraku.

It also runs the world's largest troupe of dancing girls, over 300 of them.

Like all the big Japanese companies, Shochiku's production falls sharply into costume drama and modern subjects. The two studios are equally distinct.

The one at Kyoto is located in the midst of Buddhist temples, Shinto shrines, gardens, rivers and hills—an ideal setting for period films.

The other studio, on the outskirts of the capital, is known as the largest in the Orient.

Its modern subjects cover a surprising range, from a projected seven-hour version of a science-fiction novel to be made in three parts—to a comedy about a Japanese rugby team.

Romantic stories are the most numerous and successful, as in almost every other film studio in the world. And here, too, Shochiku can claim to be a notable pioneer.

Until it went into production men had played female roles on the screen, as in the Kabuki

Shochiku was the first Japanese company to put women into films.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): A financial problem can be solved successfully if you are prepared to listen to a person who has proved his ability to deal with such matters.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): A romantic affair has little chance of ripening into a union unless you are both ready to make allowances for each other's faults.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If things seem unusually upsetting today, don't give way to irritability, but rely on your good sense to see you through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 18): On being asked to settle a dispute between friends, approach the problem unemotionally and without prejudice.

GEMINI (May 19-June 21): A generous act on your part may bring a quite unexpected reward.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): A person whose opinion matters will be impressed by your ability and common sense, and may be very helpful in furthering your ambitions.

Here is an amusing hand from a board in a match team game. At one table North decided to raise his partner right to three no-trump. West opened a two-bid attack where he held something. East put up the king and returned the jack. South covered with the queen and the defence gathered in five space tricks right off the bat.

At the other table North was in a bidding mood and eventually landed his partner at six no-trump. West made the conservative lead of the ten of

Opening lead—♦ 10

The "Isn't-she-wonderful mother" is the woman you can't avoid meeting these days.

You may have had six children and reared them all to perfection, but you won't cut much ice if this "Wonder" is around.

For this is the young mother who holds down an important job, and keeps it down right up to the minute she enters the hospital.

Three weeks later she's back at the office, the salon, or the boardroom.

"Isn't she wonderful," cry the friends and relations.

EFFICIENT

AND you can't deny it, however sour the grapes, because the baby is always popped into expert hands, the home always ticks along more efficiently.

And because these women are among the few who find time to keep up their exercise and get their hair set they look like face it—wonderful.

"How do you do?" is the question most frequently put by these wonderful Mums.

"Why do you do?" is what I wanted to know.

So I asked three working mums who passed their nine months very much not knitting woolly booties with their feet up.

"I couldn't afford not to," said Jenny Fischer, top society hostess and married to a successful jeweller.

"I had moved into a new salon at the time and had all sorts of wedding orders on hand. I was carried off to the clinic having just completed the last one, and was back for the next batch in three weeks."

"I felt terrible the whole time, but I suppose I had felt a lot worse just sitting at home fretting about the business."

I went against the doctor's advice in going back so soon and unfortunately they were right. I was ill. But apart from taking things easier afterwards I would do it the same way if I had another baby."

NO FUSS

DIANA RICE, one of the few women to start up a successful hairdressers in Central London ("John" of Knightsbridge), is married to a member of Lloyd's and had two children (now aged three and two) while working.

"When you own your own business you can't just let go the reins to have a baby. I can't do hair myself, just the administrative work, and I can't see why people fuss so."

"With the first baby I came back after a fortnight, which I admit was a bit soon; but I had the second at home and took rather longer over it."

PIONEER

HIGH girl Anne Little practically pioneered the idea and is famous for holding a conference while actually in labour. Says Mrs Little:

"I never had a day's sickness from beginning to end and I am convinced it was because I had too many other things to think about. It just didn't occur to me to stay home nursing myself and anyway it was vital time in my career."

"I got into the office at 9.30 and left before the rush hour. I made things as easy for myself as possible in small ways like rigging up a device in my desk where I could put my feet up and not going to parties and generally re-coupling over weekends."

He spent two weeks in hospital and the week at home with the baby before going back to work.

It was all right but it took me a long time to pick up, and then we ran into bits of trouble over the baby's feeding. Luckily I had an excellent handle by that time and she taught me all sorts of things I'd never known before.

There it is then, the career mothers' case. They ALL swear they've got off not at home during pregnancy. They ALL have prosperous husbands who could support them but still feel they'd rather segregate the baby than the job. They are ALL convinced that their children do not suffer from their absence, and that's what I disagree!

Mildred opinion from a London hospital puts the emphasis on the baby. A spokesman told

"A baby definitely benefits from a mother's care and feeding, and no woman should be encouraged to return to a strenuous job under six weeks."

We advise our National Health patients to give up their baby four weeks before their baby is due at the very latest."

Why do they do it? I still don't know.

ONE DISH ENTERTAINING

ENTERTAINING

THE CASSEROLE

THE least expensive cuts can be used in casseroles—and they are often of a sweeter flavour—but, what with bones and possible excessive fat, the actual meat yield will certainly be less than if more highly priced ones are used.

Still, in this dish, scrap and neck or breast of lamb will be just as good as cutlets and will cost very much less.

CASSEROLE OF LAMB

(For 7 to 8 servings)

Suck overnight 1 lb haricot or the slightly larger white beans in plenty of water, stirring from off-chill. Drain, wash and rinse, then turn them into a large pot and cover them with cold water.

Bring slowly to the boil, cover and simmer gently until a bean can be bitten through without any hardness being encountered.

This preliminary cooking of the beans can be carried out at any time.

For the main cooking, cut into serving pieces two sprigs of lamb and the chops which come with them or these boned breasts of lamb. Cut off as much fat as possible and render it down.

Dust the pieces of lamb with seasoned flour and fry them all over to a pale gold. Or, if preferred, use butter and a dessert-spoon of olive oil to prevent it burning. Remove the meat and lightly fry in the fat 1 lb of whole tiny onions.

Tie in a piece of muslin a small sprig of marjoram, a pinch of marjoram, a small bay leaf, half a clove of garlic, a sprig of thyme, a few leaves of celery and several coriander stalks. Place it in a large casserole with the beans.

Remove the bag of herbs by its attached string and serve the dish.

Note—If there is a glass of dry white wine on hand, add it with the bean stock.

No change

I WANTED first to find out what she felt was the way a woman should present herself to life.

I asked her if, when she met her guests, she tried to adapt herself to the personality of each one.

"No," she replied, "I hope I like to see people here. I don't need to be asked to places—I like to meet my friends here."

And in saying that I felt she gave great encouragement to all these women who prefer their home to bars and restaurants.

"Have you been able to exert much power as a hostess?" I asked.

"Well," came the answer, "you can do it on a personal level. You can bring along a young painter or young sculptor and see how he gets on with established people. You can put a painting on a chair and have the painter there and that can do wonders for him to hear unuttering praise."

She went on to explain that as far as she was concerned it was the variety of guests that made the best recipe.

"I'm not a goer-about, I like to see people here. I don't need to be asked to places—I like to meet my friends here."

And in saying that I felt she gave great encouragement to all these women who prefer their home to bars and restaurants.

"Have you been able to exert much power as a hostess?" I asked.

She said that they were all people who, without deliberately trying to bring silence to almost any gathering of people.

"Let's take," I asked, "that nice again. How would you tell her to be a success in entertaining?"

"The essential thing," she replied, "is warmth. You have those in abundance there is scarcely a need for the art of self-presentation.

Except experience.

Probably they are the supreme qualities of a woman—if she has those in abundance there is scarcely a need for the art of self-presentation.

—(London Express Service).

Cocktails

WHEN I asked her: "Do you think cocktail parties are useful or not?"

"No, I don't if you mean by fairly big ones. I'd rather be dead than go to one. I don't like the atmosphere of them. I don't like crowds. The conversation is fragmentary and never gets anywhere."

"But, supposing you had a young niece who was starting to go out to parties, what would you tell her to do?"

"I should tell her that there is always one marvelous person in any party and to find him or her. It gives you a sense of security when you don't scatter your thoughts. If you develop conversation with one person she said that they were all people who, without deliberately trying to bring silence to almost any gathering of people.

Of course, there are other methods. But Fleur Cowles is the classic example of success through warmth and sincerity.

Probably they are the supreme qualities of a woman—if she has those in abundance there is scarcely a need for the art of self-presentation.

Fascinating

SHE talked about some of her most fascinating guests, Victor Borges, Walter Lippmann, Bernard Baruch, Danny Kaye.

She said that they were all people who, without deliberately trying to bring silence to almost any gathering of people.

"Let's take," I asked, "that nice again. How would you tell her to be a success in entertaining?"

"The essential thing," she replied, "is warmth. You have those in abundance there is scarcely a need for the art of self-presentation.

Gloria's Birthday

Thanks To Merlin It's A Very Happy One

By MAX TRELL

HERE it was Miss Gloria Doll's birthday. The day was nearly over and Gloria had not received a single birthday present!

"Not that it bothered her much.

"I don't care whether I get presents or not," she said to herself, as she sat by the window of her beautiful room in her even more beautiful private house.

"I'd like to give her a picture," said Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-Around Name. "She has lots of room in her house for pictures."

"I'd like to give her a silver belt," said Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll.

"I'd like to give her a pair of red slippers," said Mr Punch's wife Judy.

And Hiawatha, the Small-Sized Wooden Indian, who usually only grunted, stopped wondering long enough to say "I'd like to give my friend Gloria a piece of the rainbow to jump rope with!"

Nobody in the whole room thought they could ever find any of the presents they wished to give Gloria for her birthday — and especially not the piece of the rainbow to use as a jumping rope.

At that moment, along came Mr Merlin, looking at the wooden Indian, "what was that you wanted to give to Gloria?"

Most Magnificent Magician

Today he really and truly proved himself not only to be a Magnificent Magician but the most magnificent and the happiest-making Magician that ever took a rabbit out of a hat or put one back again!

"That's it!" Gloria repeated to herself, as she tried to smile. "They don't have to give me a present. All the have to do is say 'I'm sorry.'

Looked into playroom

So Gloria pressed her face against the window again and looked out into the bigger room of the regular-house—the Playroom, in fact.

Meanwhile, in the Playroom, all of Gloria's friends were sitting and wondering and standing up and wondering and walking around and wondering, and lying on the floor and wondering, and looking up at the ceiling and wondering and looking at each other and wondering.

None of the friends were thinking about what was this:

How were they going to be able to get birthday presents for their darling friend Gloria, whom they all loved dearly, without being able to go outside

HUNGARIAN TABLE TENNIS ACES SHARE HONOURS WITH KWANGTUNG TEAM

TOKYO, Dec. 2.
The Hungarian women's table tennis team defeated the Kwangtung squad 3-0 yesterday in Canton but the Hungarian men's squad lost to the Chinese 5-2, Peking Radio reported.

EXHIBITION TENNIS AT CRC TONIGHT

Arrangements have been made between the Hong Kong Lawn Tennis Association and Jack Kramer, professional tennis players Ashley Cooper, Pancho Segura, Andrea Olimpia and Alex Olmedo to stage another tennis exhibition at the Chinese Recreation Club at 8 p.m. today.

The detailed programme has not been finalised but there will be two singles and one doubles matches on schedule, each match to be decided on best of three sets.

Prices of admission will be the same as in the first night's exhibition last Wednesday. Refunds will be made for tickets purchased for last night's cancelled games and new tickets will have to be purchased for tonight.

According to the broadcast Eva Kocian, reigning European women's champion, beat Tai Pei-mei 2-0 while teammate Sari Mathe, Hungarian national champion, edged Liang Li-chen by the same score.

The visitors dropped the first set in the doubles but won the next two from Liang Li-chen and Yang Chao-wei.

Outsmashed

Peking Radio said in the men's team events, Ferenc Sido, Zoltan Berekz and Lajos Pilgitzky lost to the Kwangtung group made up of Tsai Ming-shu, Liang Yu-hai and Li Jen-5-2.

Tsai outsmashed Sido in two straight sets and beat Pilgitzky and Berekz, each by 2-1. Liang beat Pilgitzky 2-0 and Berekz 2-1.

The visitors capped two wins when Berekz triumphed over Li Jen-5-2 and Sido beat Li Jen-5-2.

The Hungarians play another series of the goodwill matches in Canton today.—AP.

Oxford vacancy shows weakness

By TERRY O'CONNOR

LONDON, Oxford University spotlighted their weakness in the front row last week when they announced their team to meet Cambridge at Twickenham on December 6. They have left a vacancy for a prop forward.

The visitors dropped the first set in the doubles but won the next two from Liang Li-chen and Yang Chao-wei.

The team 1/2:

J. G. Wilcox (Rugby); P. M. Drakins (West Point); J. McPartlin (Wimbledon); C. Hill; P. J. Burnell (Edinburgh); and Spinning Wheel (P. Plumby); R. Shaw (Penzance G.S.); R. Shaw (Bristolians); M. Palmer (Ravens Park G.S.); D. Davies (Cardigan G.S.); A. N. Other (F. H. T. Bos (Petes); L. Fliby (Sutton G.S.); F. Butler (Harlow); C. Payne (Stevenson); P. Bentley (St George's Rhine); The new Blues are McPartlin, Burnell, Palmer, Spencer, Fliby, Payne, and Bentley.

NOT SO BIG

Pack problems have troubled Oxford all season, and they were badly beaten in the right and lines-out against Harlequins at Twickenham recently.

This accounted for their 11-3 defeat.

Two Cambridge men, Gordon Waddell and Vic Hording, rested because of minor injuries from the match against Blackheath and watched their rivals.

Due to the absence of Waddell, Cambridge captain Ken Scotland had to give up his half and scored one of his team's 14-10 victory over Blackheath.

Scotland still hopes to play at full-back against Oxford, but this depends on Wade's fitness.

Newmarket, Dec. 1.

Japanese interest in the Newmarket bloodstock sales continued today when a mare was purchased by the London Bloodstock Agency to be exported to Japan.

The mare was Black Bee, a 10-year-old by Honeyway. The Agency paid 4,000 guineas for her.

Like the Japanese, the Russians are widening their racing interests. Two Russian buyers, with a woman interpreter, entered the market here for the first time to buy a yearling colt by Alycidex for 2,000 guineas.—China Mail Special.

Patterson's wife sues beauty parlour for alleged discrimination

MINEOLA, Dec. 1. Heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson's $3,000 damage suit against a Rockville Centre, New York, beauty parlour has been thrown out of court. However, a similar $500 suit by his wife was allowed to stand.

Both cases were directed against the Mrs. Beauty Salon, and charged that Mrs. Sandra Patterson was discriminated against by being refused an appointment because she is a Negress.

Circuit Judge Bernard Tomson ruled yesterday that under State Laws only the person discriminated against may seek redress. Patterson had asked damages because he said he also suffered "great humiliation and shame."

The shop's owners denied any discrimination.—AP.

BABOOK AND CARRIE WILL BE LOGICAL CHOICES FOR DAY'S TOP TWO EVENTS

The Second day of the Hongkong Jockey Club Fourth Race Meeting concludes tomorrow with a programme of eight interesting events.

The first saddling bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m. and the first race will start at 2.00 p.m.

The two sections of the Folkestone Handicap for Class 3 horses over the distance of one mile will form the highlights of the day's programme.

Here are my estimates of the chances:

FIRST RACE

Brighton Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

In this Novel's Race the following should be prominent: Tamerlane (Chun Kit) and Twin Luck (S. W. H. Ho). Tamerlane is good over this distance and it should certainly be well backed.

Twin Luck should claim the second position.

Gleha with Michel up, could be the one to upset.

SECOND RACE

Leopardstown Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

In this race for Horses Class 7, I do not have to look beyond Dragonfly (Lam King-tak), which is reaching its best running condition.

Its closest rivals are Vigorous and Lovely Sky (C. L. Yen).

As an outsider I look to Dart (E. S. Wong) for a jolly dividend.

FIFTH RACE

Folkestone Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

Babook (Chun Kit) is the logical choice for this mile event, but Top Speed (Ringlo Lai) will be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Its little known, but Ringlo is a good outsider.

SIXTH RACE

Leopardstown Handicap (Second Section): From 1/2

Mile to 1 1/2 Miles.

For the third position Bonita (R. Tsai) and Flying Filly (H. K. Hung) will fight out the issue.

EIGHTH RACE

Folkestone Handicap (Third Section): One Mile.

This race is the last race of the Fourth meeting and will be contested by Class 3 horses.

Hippone (Alex Lam) is in fine form and should fight to the last inch for the premier honours.

Renown (Sang Liu) will run her very close and Native Prince (H. K. Hung) could be near too.

Giardello loses to Mueller on points

Cologne, Dec. 1.

Germany's Peter Müller today won a narrow ten-round points victory over highly rated U.S. middleweight Joey Giardello.

Giardello, 30, who rates second in the list of contenders of Gene Fullmer's world middle-weight title, had knocked out the German in the second round of their first clash in Milwaukee on March 1, 1955.

Giardello's non-title fight in Cologne's Messesportshall was watched by 8,000 fans strongly rooting for the 33-year-old German.

There was no knockout but both boxers let fly freely at each other and Mueller opened a cut over his opponent's left eye in the sixth round.—AP.

OXO TOPS LIST OF 'CHASERS FOR NATIONAL HUNT SEASON

London.
National Hunt racing greatly enlivened the final dismal weeks of the flat season. Already, there have been fine performances by Saffron Tartan, Oxo, Mr What, Blessington Esquire and several young hurdlers. One way to get the most out of jumping is to follow a dozen of the better-class horses throughout the season.

OXO heads my list of chasers to follow. After a gallant display under 12st, 7lb. in the Beecher Chase at Liverpool, his chance of winning another Grand National must be really bright.

Completely recovered from his leg injury, Oxo has quit unruffled by a first-fence blunder, and went on to give his lightly-weighted rivals a jumping lesson. He would certainly have won with the benefit of a previous race.

OUT OF TOWN.—The Queen Mother has made a great start to the season, and this novice chaser will soon add to her winners. He was kept to hurdles last season after falling in a 'chase, but showed at Hurst Park that his confidence is fully restored.

Another royal chaser, HALL'S HOPE, was kept to the smaller jumps last season, winning three times in seven starts in good company.

Grand effort

It was a grand effort against Blessington Esquire over fences at Newbury. He did not jump so cleanly as some others, but was definitely strong. When he has learned a little more, he will win good prizes, and should stay three miles.

EL GRIEGO II.—This is one for sharp tracks like Lingfield, Fonthill and Windsor. He was cleverly placed to win four times last season, and goes well in mud.

I am confident that trainer Douglas Marks will find the right opportunities for him.

ROCK'S CROSS

Two seasons ago? Barely out of the novice stage, he won five times in seven starts, but was off racing for most of last season because of injury.

Close third

NEVILLE CRUMP has got Rock's Cross back to form again. He is now nine years of age.

It is not difficult to foresee a brilliant career for BLESSINGTON ESQUIRE. He has the make and shape of a champion, as he showed at Newbury and is there another English motor-cycle challenger capable of succeeding Surtees? Yes, the youngest prospect in the country—20-year-old millionaire motorcyclist Mike Hallwood.

Mike, an ex-public schoolboy, is son of Stan Hallwood, one of England's wealthiest motorcycle dealers.

FRONT RANK

Here are six British riders to watch in the future:

PHIL READ.—Winner of the Senior Manx Grand Prix in September at an average speed of 95.38 miles an hour over the 37½-mile mountain circuit. Read is almost in the front rank of road racing stars. He is 21.

BILL WILKINSON's first rides were on private ground near his home at Kettlewell in the Yorkshire dales, and in his first year of competition riding—1958—Wilkinson won the best newcomer's award in the Scottish Six Days' Trial.

BRYAN GOSA was a member of the Southern Centre team which won the Inter-Centre team championship this year.

GEORGE GOULD joined forces with his brother John to start grass-track racing with a JAP-engined speedway machine. Both have won the Southern Centre championship more than once since 1958.

TONY ROBINSON, 23, a Sheffield garage mechanic, is holder of the Silver Sash Match Race championship of the provincial league.

CHARLIE HOUS, a 30-year-old London journalist, has won the Noel Pope Bowl awarded annually to the member of the British Motor-Cycle Racing Club making the fastest official speed during the year.

Land Forces cross country race today

Runners from British Army units throughout the Colony will line up at SKKong today for the 1960 Land Forces team and individual cross country championships.

The Commander British Forces (Lt-Colonel Sir Roderick McLeod) will open the 6½-mile race from the starting point at 3 pm.

Big major and four minor units as well as four individuals have entered this test of stamina and endurance — a slightly greater field than last year.

Individual runners include three Gurkha soldiers and Private M. Mahalingam, RASC, a cleric from HQ Land Forces, Victoria Barracks.

Lady McLeod, wife of the CBF, will present the trophies. Prize will be awarded for all three sections of the championship.

IN HONOUR OF A GREAT FIGHTER

The greatest fist-power ever assembled in Britain met last week at a dinner of the National Sporting Club in London to honour one of their 'greatest fists'—Georges Carpenter, former light-heavyweight champion of the world.

Carpenter, a young-looking 88, came face to face with his old opponent 'Bombarier' Billy Wells, the man he beat twice in one year—1912. Together, they watched a film of their training bouts. Later Carpenter, in his hulky voice and halting English, talked of the fights that stand out in his memory to an audience of 300 guests.

There was laughter as Carpenter, wearing scarlet boxing gloves in his evening suit, threw mock punches at his old opponent Wells to punctuate his speech. It included recollections of the night when he lost to heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey in 1921.

The party was later joined by Ted ('Kid') Lewis, now in his seventies, who had once given Carpenter one of the most controversial fights in his career. He was greeted by Carpenter with a hug and was among the many vanquished who cheered when Carpenter had made his speech.

Only one in this group ever knocked Carpenter out—Ted Broadribb, standing second from the right.—London Express Service.

Selection of Pakistan Test team delayed

Bentley, Dec. 1.
A doubt about the fitness of Hanif Mohammad, their leading batsman, has caused Pakistan to delay selection of the team for the first Test against India starting at the Brabourne Stadium here tomorrow.

Hanif practised at the nets this morning and later three doctors examined his infected big right toe. They said that he was still slightly sensitive to pain, but could play if he did not feel much discomfort overnight.

A sell-out crowd of 38,000 will watch the game, the clearest Test between the two countries. India have won two, Pakistan one, and the rest have been drawn.—China Mail Special.

Three needle softball matches this weekend

By OLLY VAS

The results of their matches at King's Park this week will be of importance to the Indians and Giants in the Junior division and also to the four teams engaged in Little League baseball competition for there are three needle games on the schedule.

If the Cubs beat the Lions when they meet on Saturday at 2.00 pm they are in with a chance to force a four-way tie in the Little League provided that they score a double by downing the Giants a week from now and if the latter should in turn account for the Rebels.

It is an intriguing situation for the mathematically-minded ball fan for there are only three more baseball games to be played off before this spring training baseball comes to an end in early December.

The statistics show that the Lions have already beaten the Cubs once before, to the tune of 8 runs to one but as the youngsters put their hearts and soul into every encounter one can never rule out the possibility of upsets. The Lions are pre-game favourites.

The Indians play the first game of a weekend double-header against the new New Asia in a Junior division softball match immediately afterwards, at 3.30 pm. An easy victory is forecast for Alec Braga's boys but New Asia will be trying very hard, as they always do, to keep the score down to a reasonable level.

Crucial match

The Indians cannot afford to drop any more games and their match on the next day will be a crucial one for them.

The Little League baseballers get off to an early start on Sunday morning at 8.30 when the Rebels cross bats with the Giants. Both sides have lost two to date and there will be much interest shown in this game. Whatever the outcome fans can expect to see a highly entertaining contest.

At 11 am the ladies make return to the softball scene.

The unbeaten SCAA nine have not had an outing since crushing the Toreros 16-0 a few weeks ago. They meet Robert Silva's Cheyennes who have lost the only game they have played so far, to the SCAA 'B' side. It is only logical to assume that the defending champion will not be duly extended by the Cheyennes. A resurgence of interest in Ladies' softball is noticeable and it is hoped that this interest will be sustained by both spectators and players.

It is only evident that calls of duty make it impossible for the U.S. Navy to turn out the same team regularly in the Senior division for the standard of play of the team from the current station ship the "Montrose" leaves little to the imagination.

The sailors come up against the winless Pendas, captained by Y. S. Liang, at 1.30 pm.

The Chinese boys are but a shadow of the well-known Pendas of yesteryear and they must win this match to regain some lost prestige, not that it matters to their standing as they are already out of the running for the Senior Championship. If the Navy team shows no improvement over their dismal performance last week a runaway triumph for the Pendas is indicated.

FOR MEN

A CONTRAST AT NIGHT

The contrast of life in Hongkong is here with the well-dressed couple and the old woman whose home is the street. The woman walks in furs while the aged one sleeps in a straw mat. The plight of thousands like her is one of this Colony's most pressing problems.

Dangerous drugs charge

Four men were charged with manufacturing dangerous drugs this morning before Mr D. Cons of Central Court. They were Cheung Muk-po, 47, Lam Mow, 34, Lam Leung-chi, 38 and Yiu Kon, 32.

Cheung Muk-po and Lam, containing heroin, morphine salt, were additionally charged with possession of dangerous drugs and Lam Cheung-chi with permitting premises to be used for the manufacturing of dangerous drugs.

Yiu Kon offered $20,000 bail and the other three defendants remanded seven days jail custody for further inquiries. Detective Sub-Inspector R. L. Redpath is in charge of the case.

The police alleged that some time between October and November the four defendants at No 75 Deep Water Bay-road manufactured dangerous drugs. Cheung Muk-po and Lam Mow were alleged to have been in possession of solutions

REPLY TO ROCHDALE

Mr T. Y. Wong, Chairman of the Hongkong Spinners' Association, this morning released this reply to Lord Rochdale's statement yesterday on the ceiling agreement with Lancashire:

"The position of local cotton industry on the quota question was made amply clear in the recent joint statement. Just as Lord Rochdale wished to give it careful study upon his return to Manchester, so we would wish to carefully study his letter published this morning."

"But I would observe that in referring to our premises he had not directly commented on the most important one, and that is, the original and basic understanding was only for a breathing space, and the spirit of this understanding should be held inviolate."

Army medical director on tour

Lieutenant-General Sir W. Alexander D. Drummond, Director-General of Army Medical Services, War Office, London, arrived from Calcutta this morning for a three-day visit to Army hospitals here. He was accompanied by Major-General W. J. Officer, Director of Medical Services, Far East, Bangkok.

Sir Alexander D. Drummond is visiting Hongkong as part of a comprehensive Far East tour during which he has visited British military hospitals and Royal Army Medical Corps units in Singapore and Malaya.

During his stay here, he will be the guest of Lieutenant-General Sir Roderick McLeod, Commander British Forces, and Lady McLeod.

Win appeal but not discharged

Mian Mohamad and Abdullah Rafique appealed against a 2½-year prison sentence on charges of uttering forged banknotes and their conviction and sentences were quashed at Full Court today.

COULDN'T AFFORD COUNSEL, SHE SAYS

A Chinese woman herbalist, Tse Wai-lan, who had been sentenced to three years in the Criminal Sessions on two charges of abortion, told the Full Court this morning that she had been unable to raise money to obtain the services of a counsel in her appeal against the conviction.

She said she was also unable to secure free services of counsel and asked the Court for an adjournment so that she could study the record of the trial to prepare for her appeal.

The Full Court granted her an adjournment for three weeks. The Acting Chief Justice, Mr Justice C. W. Reece, who presided in the Full Court, added, "I hope in the meantime you will be able to get assistance of counsel."

Sitting with Mr Justice Reece was Mr Justice W. A. Blair-Kerr.

Mong Kok drainage system

The existing stormwater drainage system in the Mong Kok area of Kowloon is becoming greatly overloaded owing to the rapid re-development that is taking place in the territory.

During the summer rains, the drainage system could not cope with the heavy flow of water and flooding resulted in some places.

To prevent flooding of this nature, the Public Works Department will construct new stormwater culverts in Sai Yeestrot and Mong Kok-road to carry the flow for discharge into the Mong Kok nullah.

The new stormwater culverts will be from 42 inches to 66 inches in diameter. They will be laid in about a month's time and the work will take about eight months to complete.

New quarters

New staff quarters for the Preventive Service will be constructed at Hunghom on a site off Ma Tau Wel-road.

Three separate blocks of flats for the accommodation of 90 families will be erected. The blocks will be of six, seven, and ten storeys in height. Two of the blocks will have car ports on the ground floor.

December 1935

The Hongkong Rotary Club contributed its quota towards making the public conscious of the necessity for learning how to protect themselves from the dangers of gas warfare, when they invited Engineer Commander H. J. White to give a broadcast talk on this subject at their luncheon in the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday. The speaker described in detail the effects of the more common gases and the treatment necessary, and drew a vivid picture of a modern city population withdrawing in public refuge buildings on the approach of a gas attack.

TEMPORARY ACCESS ROADS

Work will start soon on the building of two temporary access roads at San Po Kong, a large area of some 36 acres lying to the north of the airport in the Kowloon City district.

This large area, spreading over land formerly occupied by the old Airport runway, has already been levelled and formed, and a number of sites have been sold for private residential and industrial development.

The two new access roads will facilitate access to sites by contractors' lorries. They will follow the alignment of the permanent thoroughfares which will be constructed at a later date.

Consul for France

Mr Andre Mancel-Bize, Trade Commissioner, has been accorded formal recognition as Consul for France at Hongkong, the Government Gazette notified today.
